Gremlins cause primary election foul-up

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

That's what primaries are for: to work out the bugs. But there were no bugs in the primary election last Tuesday . . . rather there were gremlins. Those small imaginary creatures "humorously blamed for faulty operations or disruption of any procedure," according to Webster's dictionary apparently found the way to voting booths in Romulus. That is the only explanation offered for the totally unexpected and almost unexplainable circumstances of the primary vote.

"Basically, what happened," admitted City Clerk Linda Choate, "the voting machines of precinct 3 and 8 were switched which caused no problems on the general ballot but after a string of misguided events no votes were tallied by the Wayne County Clerk's office for the local precinct delegates."

"We have worked very hard to alleviate the problem. It took a lot of people to figure exactly what happened and wasn't until late Friday that we found out," she said.

It all began Tuesday morning in the gymnasium of Beverly School where each of the two precincts voters cast ballots. "The machines were switched as the custodian rolled them in. The volunteer election workers found their keys would not work and traded keys. Nobody looked at the numbers on the machine which designate what goes where and nobody notified me.

"The situation was uncovered late in the afternoon when a precinct delegate attempted to cast his vote and to send in the results of the paper did not find his name on the ballot. Then we took steps to remedy the problem. The Wayne County Clerk's office advised us not to switch the machines but to use paper ballots for the precinct delegates.

"When the election ended, the county told us not to count those on the machine and to send in the results of the paper ballots. But they were not counted by our workers. So officially, every precinct delegate received no votes. The county said they could not certify these people were winners because there were no votes. The election workers were confused about which votes to tally and, to compound the problem, Snakes alive!

Evangelist tempts faith of congregation

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The snakes are gone. Soon Garry Long of Romulus and his family will also move from the parish house next to the Full Pentecostal Holiness Church of God in Romulus where he had been pastor for the past eight months.

Long has learned that fame can be fleeting.

After an article appeared in the Detroit News, members in the church congregation voted to remove Long as pastor. The article disclosed that the handling of serpents or snakes helps form the basis of the Christian beliefs of the congregation.

Not quite true, according to Church Deacon Ronald Chitwood.

"We don't believe it that way," said Chitwood who has been with the church 13 years. "After reading the article, we found out a lot about us and Long we didn't know. The congregation was as upset as the city when we read it."

Chitwood referred to the investigation conducted by the ordinance and police departments of Romulus eight days after the published article appeared Sunday, July 20.

On July 28, Sergeant David Early, ordinance director Steve Banko and Animal Control Officer Mike Hebdia visited the church at the intersection of Tyler and Cogswell roads.

"He was very cordial and polite as he showed us around the premises. Long showed us a number of snake cages with one containing the skin of a rattlesnake. He admitted to having snakes at the church on different occasions but only during special services and not on a regular basis. The snakes are currently being kept at a location outside of Michigan, according to Long," Early said.

Early went on to explain that Chitwood and treasurer Richard McIntosh came into the station to discuss the recent incidents regarding serpents and the publicity received by the church.

"They said that Long had been pastor since December but was in the process of being removed from his position even prior to the recent investigation. Long recently introduced serpents into the services under the objection of many parishioners," Early continued.

"Last Sunday, Long preached his last sermon and has been given 30 days to vacate the church house," he said.

The case is closed according to city officials.

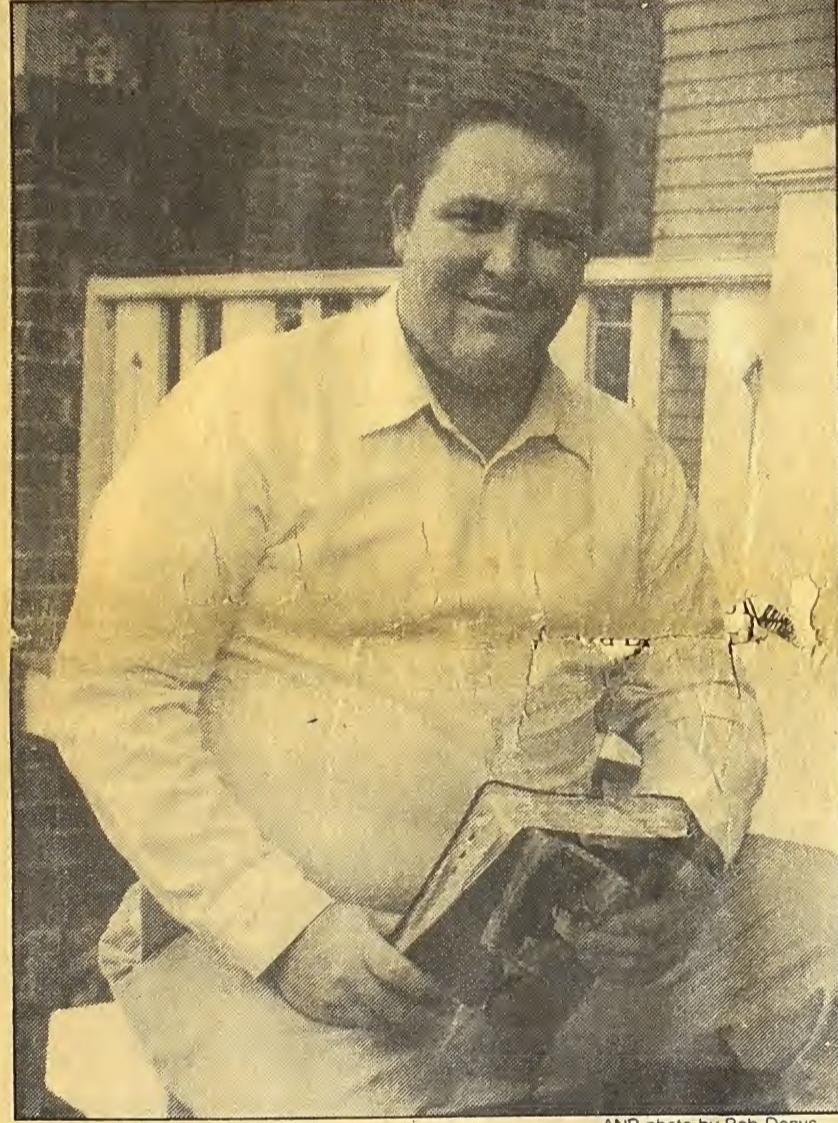

"We have no bad feelings and I shook his hand when he left," said Chitwood. "Our church is incorporated and operated like any governing body. Members are voted in and out. We have an annual election in September. That election was just conducted early because of the aggravation generated by the article."

The scripture passage in question which forms the basis of this controversial belief is Mark Chapter 16 which states, "He that is believed and is baptized is saved. And these signs shall follow them that believe: in my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them."

"I am not trying to make anybody believe anything. You can read it for yourself," stressed Long in an interview at his home last Sunday. "The Detroit News said many things which were false or hearsay. I have little children. Why would I jeopardize their well being by harboring snakes," inquired Long as his two children, Angela Joyce, 4, and Gary Nicholas, 3, played nearby.

It was suggested that a disgruntled church member informed the newspaper

Northwest-Republic merger takes-off smooth at Metro

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

As long as they don't crash, local officials are pleased with the announcement last week of the merger between Northwest Orient and Republic Airlines, the largest in U.S. airline history.

The nation's seventh largest airline, Northwest purchased Republic, the ninth largest and created the third largest airline behind United and American Airlines, at a cost of $884 million, according to Michael Conway, spokesman for the Wayne County Executive Office. The new name of the airline will be Northwest, dropping the Republic title.

Completion of the merger will take not just months but years, according to officials but even local union personnel foresee positive results.

"We don't really know at this time," said Craig Rush, union representative for International Association of Machinists (IAM) at Metropolitan Airport. Five different unions supply labor to the different airlines along with IAM to include the ALEA (Airline Employees' Association International) and BRAC (Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks) being the two largest.

The merger affects the more than 4,000 employees from both airlines stationed in the Detroit area.

"In the long run jobs will be created by the merger," said Welsh. "Staffing requirements will be a product of scheduling which will not go into effect until Oct. 1 when airline schedules will be integrated."

Although Northwest was among the largest airlines in the nation, Detroit has served as the hub of Republic operations for years. In 1985, 40 percent of all passengers boarded employees. The expansion plans at the airport will accommodate this growth," said Conway.

"Metropolitan Airport led the nation in percentage of increased passengers. We now rank as the 10th largest airport in the nation. The role of the airport is to meet the requirements of the airlines. Metro continues to grow," he stressed.

From Northwest headquarters in Minneapolis, Minnesota, vice-president William Wren said, "Detroit is the key to our expansion. With $2.6 billion in revenues last year we have no intention of dismantling the operation, but enhancing it. Both airlines complement each other very well. Northwest has a fleet of larger planes with more international flights. Republic has a fleet of smaller planes and local flights."

Walt Hellman, manager of public relations at Republic in Chicago said, "We also are not anticipating any layoffs."

Last year, Republic earned $177 million.

Phase I of the expansion at Metro calls for the addition of 10-12 more gates. There are presently 83 gates with 39 for Republic and seven for Northwest. By the end of phase III, 40 more gates will have been added. "The expansion program is designed to be flexible," said Conway. "To meet the ever changing needs of the airport."

a Republic plane while only 9 percent boarded a Northwest plane.

"Republic is a major force in Detroit," said Conway. "Their deplanements, or passengers on board, has gone up 10 percent from last year. The two airlines combined total almost 60 percent of the deplanements at Metro."

"We view the merger as positive. It should help provide more service more efficiently. It will not affect county em-

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnalley joined general manager Jeff Rieck last Monday and cut the ribbon for the grand opening of the new 131 room Comfort Inn on Middlebelt Road south of the airport. Several city officials and local dignitaries attended the open house.

National program debuts in Romulus

The news media has drawn national attention to a reading program for which local adults can begin to register, according to Norma Williams, teacher with the Romulus Adult Education Program.

The program is "Learn to Read" and "a big push by the media is on," Williams emphasized. Every day between 6:30 and 10:30 a.m. on Channel 7 reading skills are taught. The program is backed by K Mart, McDonald's and has appeared on Kelly and Company.

"Six hundred thousand people in Michigan need help in reading. The state now provides programs because of the urgency of the problem. Businesses are requesting help in this area. They are revamping manufacturing plants and employees need new skills or they could be laid off," said Williams.

The Romulus Adult Education Program opens registration to any interested individuals with classes to begin Sept. 15.

"The classes are informal and free. Students will learn simple things like how to read a menu, bills, maps, phone books or children's stories. Many older individuals lack confidence. They come in with low esteem and leave feeling good about themselves. There is a definite improvement," she said.

The community needs greater awareness of this problem, according to Williams. The class will run through Jan. 14 but people can join at anytime.

"Adults who can not read are not alone. There are many people willing to help. Our tutors are very enthusiastic," she said.

Classes will meet from 6:15 until 9:45 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday in Romulus High School and from 10 a.m. until noon Monday, Wednesday and Friday. For more information call 941-0610.

The recommendation was made before members of the city council and the mayor and accepted by them.

THE UNIVERSITY OF Michigan has informed Romulus High School that it is on the list of secondary school fully accredited by the University. "This status will continue as long as established standards and criteria are met," said Dr. Connie Jo Craft, associate director for accreditation. "We extend to your school community our heartiest congratulations," she added.

BEAUMONT HOSPITAL OF Royal Oak commended Romulus Detective Sergeant David Early for his involvement in a group of law enforcement officers in the Blue Knights Motorcycle Club, Michigan Chapter One and their active participation with the hospital Pediatrics Intensive Care Ward.

"In early 1984, this group of officers adopted the ward as their "charity." They have been directly responsible for providing televisions, VCR's, video movies, video games, and assorted toys to the ward. It is my understanding that the members of the Blue Knights give up a good portion of their free time to sponsor motorcycle events, from which they raise funds to make their donations to the ward," said William Brian, director of development at Beaumont.

"Detective Daved Early is a credit to your department and you have every reason to be proud of him," added Brian.

He emphasized that the use of snakes demonstrates his faith in God and belief in God's word found in the Bible.

"If God works with you anything can happen and no harm will come to you. I have been bit by the snake and hurt and I have been bit and not hurt. It is God's will," said Long who was bitten just a couple months ago by a black rattle and not hurt, he claimed.

"The practice of snake handling is very common down south in Kentucky and Virginia," added Long.

The types of snakes used are timber rattlers, copperheads and sometimes cotton mouths, according to Long. Most come from the mountains of Virginia. "Very few people handle snakes in the north," said Long.

Long, 28, was born and raised in Detroit. He moved down south when he was 15 and soon did not count the paper ballots," explained Choate.

"But I think the situation has been straightened out to everyone's satisfaction," Choate said.

Each precinct delegate ran unopposed. Each candidate needed a minimum of three votes to be elected.

The candidates and prospective winners were from Precinct 3, Connie Madison, D., Daniel Grieve, D., and William Reader, R. Those from Precinct 8 were Eugene Wilson, D., and Harry Wilson, D.

"I have talked with the district party chairmen and they verbally assured me these people will be certified as party delegates at the Republican convention on Aug. 13 and at the Democratic convention on Aug. 16. There was no question that these people received votes as witnessed by several election workers. This was just an unfortunate mix-up.

"The candidates did receive the necessary number of votes. There will be no special election which candidates can petition for according to the election law if they disagree with uncertain election processes," said Choate who admitted the problem can only be attributed to gremlins.

"This is a good lesson for a lot of people. Other than that, everything went surprisingly well. I notified the candidates late Friday that they will be certified. Everybody seems to be happy," she said.

realized his ambition to become a preacher like his father who at one time was an assistant pastor at the Full Pentecostal Holiness Church.

He returned north with his wife, Lynda Faye, and children three years ago. For the past year he has worked in Fleetwood Cadillac assembly plant in Detroit.

"I was a slow learner and didn't know how to read until I was 16 years old. The Lord spoke to me while I was in the mountains and told me to read the Bible. When I went home I could read. I've been an evangelist since then," he recalled.

"I came here to preach for a short time. I will now go perform my duty elsewhere," he said. "I harbor no bad feelings toward anyone."

The church had been without a pastor for four years before Long was appointed. The church was founded in 1956 on Michigan Avenue in Ypsilanti and moved to Romulus 18 years ago.

"We are clean living and hard working people. We love people but stand against wrongdoing including drinking and smoking. We have nothing to hide. The church is not out to get a lot of publicity. We are a quiet, peace-loving people who abide by the law and want to cause no trouble. We believe in the Bible, we believe in everyday living and we believe in miracles," Chitwood said.

Out of the more than 25,000 residents in Romulus, over half are registered voters. In the Tuesday primary election, 1,870 people cast votes at the 19 precincts in Romulus.

The election was a partisan election and ballots had to be cast either for all Republicans or all Democrats. Ballots could not be split, according to Choate.

The votes of Romulus voters closely paralleled those cast by Republicans and Democrats throughout the state of Michigan.

On the local scene precinct delegate winners were: Precinct 1: James Lowe and Gary Moore; Precinct 2: Theodore Jacques; Precinct 3: Connie Madison, Daniel Grieve and William Reader; Precinct 4: Lester Deiter; Precinct 5: Annie Graham, Louis McHugh, Dalores Carmichael and A. AFTER BANKRUPTCY EX-EMPLOYER PAYS PARTIAL BACK WAGES TO ARNOLD McLELLAN!!

Dear Letter Writer:

I have been struggling off and on, since April, 1978, trying to file an appropriate claim against an employer of mine that went bankrupt. The matter is now in the hands of the Indiana Insurance Commissioner and I am being told that my claim was not timely filed. I am due earned monies and am not ready to stop trying to collect. Will you please help me.

Sincerely, Arnold McLellan

Dear Indiana Insurance Commissioner:

Please accept this letter as my formal appearance in the above-referenced matter. I was an employee of the life insurance company, at issue, from March, 1977, to April,

ginny
eades

1978, when my employment was terminated due to bankruptcy. My last date of employment was April 15, 1978.

In the Spring of 1978, I was informed by the regional vice-president of the bankrupt company that within 30 to 60 days, the company would be in bankruptcy and, of course, my employment would be terminated. In addition, I was informed that your office would be taking over the matter.

On Aug. 2, 1978, I wrote a letter to a representative at the bankrupt company setting forth monies due me. In August, I wrote another letter to a different gentleman, again seeking information regarding how to proceed in filing my claim. On or about Jan. 16, 1979, my claim was received by your offices. I was subsequently informed that the filing deadline for claims was Jan. 13, 1979.

I short, I am a victim of a corporate entanglement. I was ill-informed and, in spite of this handicap, attempted to comply in full with the rules and regulations of the court to secure equity in this matter.

As of this writing, the company is indebted to me in the amount of $2,347.61.

I respectfully request that should this appeal be in any way deficient that you promptly inform me. In addition, so that I may act timely in the future, may I hear from you with regard to any further questions or documentation needed.

I await your equitable decision.

Sincerely, Arnold McLellan

RESOLUTION: Arnold came to The Letter Writer offices on June 19, 1986, and informed us that he had received word from the Insurance Commissioner in Indiana that his claim had been considered and that he would receive monies based on the amount of money available and the number of claims filed. Thus, Arnold will receive a portion of his claim, according to the Commissioner, before the end of June, 1986.

Your responses to my column are appreciated. Continue to keep in touch with me at 42245 Ann Arbor Road, PMC Center, Suite 109LL, Plymouth, MI 48170 or 455-8892.

A model pilot

Westland man lands hobby with planes

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

Joe Hass guides his plane to a perfect take-off, loops twice in mid-air over the Indian City air field and then in mid-flight the plane plummets to the ground - wings broken, fuselage damaged, but not unrepairable.

Hass, a Westland resident and member of the Indian City Radio Control Club, attributes the crash to "just one of those things" that happen during the flight of radio-controlled models. But, there is a look of disappointment in his eyes as he explains that the damaged plane is 27 years old and the flight was the last one planned for it this season.

"That's why we call this a year-around sport," Hass said. "In the summer, you fly the planes and in the winter you go into your workshop and build or repair."

Hass, who along with other club members is preparing for the Detroit Expo VIII at Yack Arena in Wyandotte Aug. 16 and 17, formerly owned the Wayne Hobby Shop. Years ago, he explained, he owned a hardware store and then phased it out when he opened the hobby shop. His interest in model-building and flying came along with his involvement in the business.

"I'm just a hacker," Hass said, scanning the planes on the field. "Some of these guys really put a lot of time and work into their planes, but I just put them together and fly them."

The flying of scale model planes, once referred to as a hobby, is now being touted as a sport, according to Hass. Model enthusiasts, not only build planes, but also construct power boats, sailboats, cars, trucks and military vehicles, ranging from static-display models to radio-controlled crafts. The building of rockets is now becomming a popular fad with the younger modelers.

Club members have constructed quarter-scale and third-scale models of planes and many have authentic reproductions of famous aircrafts. One of the largest planes flying from the field has a 14-foot wingspan, he said.

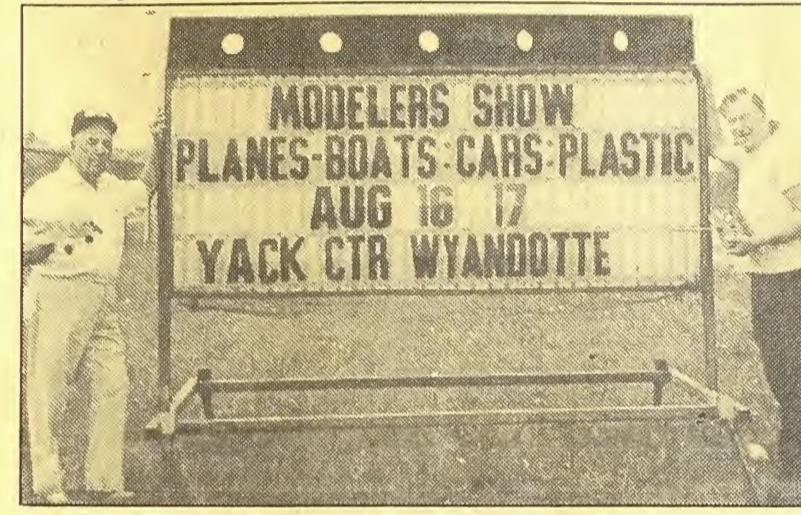

John Tierney, director of the Detroit Expo VIII show, said the event will feature hobby shops, video movies, a swap shop, auction and refreshments. Cash awards will be presented to the best of show in the plane, boat, car and plastic categories, he said.

Tierney promotes the sport as "appealing to everyone." Youngsters can start with rubber-band propelled planes at a very small cost and as their interest grows, they can progress to larger and more expensive models. It is a activity that senior citizens can also enjoy with a minimum of effort and a lot of enjoyment - especially the camaraderie one finds on the field, he said.

Although modelers can enjoy the activity at any level, most of the members of the Indian City Radio Control Club have between $3,000 and $5,000 invested in their planes and accessories. The area boasts six or seven clubs, but the Indian City one is the oldest and most active of the area organizations, Tierney said.

Show hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Yack Arena is located at 3131 Third Street in Wyandotte, north of Eureka Road and one block west of Jefferson (Biddle) Avenue.

Ancient Chinese proverb:
"Everyone's entitled to bad day every now and then"

Today was mine.

I mean really, could I help it if I had bronchitis and spent the afternoon at the doctor's office?

I mean really, I was loaded to the gills with cough syrup, had drops in my ears, was taken off my bottle (it's about time, the doctor said) and baby Jeffy was teething. So why did mom and dad haul us off to this restaurant for dinner?

I think our waiter was glad to see us leave.

It was one of those days... Every parent with little, little kids just dreads...

I really wanted to look at the big fish tank and walk around. Mom and dad got a little embarrassed when I visited a few tables and tried to play with the forks, pretty little teacups and placemats. I really didn't mean to knock that chair over, honest!

Ditto for my water.

Ditto for Jeffy when he pulled the cup of very mediocre egg drop soup made with far too much cornstarch onto the floor. (It really wasn't that good anyway!)

It wasn't my fault that the Pina Colada mom ordered was

made with a cheap bar mix and didn't have much liquor in it. (I loved the cute little Chinese fan and fruit!)

Thank goodness that was the worst part of the meal. Everything after that was pretty good.

Dad ordered an appetizer called "Chinese Pot Stickers." Out came a small plate with four "good-sized" Chinese ravioli that were deep fried in oil and served with a sweet and sour sauce with some hot sauce on the side. He thought I wouldn't like them but he was fooled. Mmm good. After mom got one and I got two, all that was left for dear old Dad was just one lonely pot sticker. I told him the paper was paying for this and he could order more if he wanted but, noooooo. He had to act like a martyr. Well worth the $2.40.

(Try them with some sweet and sour sauce mixed with a SMALL dab of the Chinese hot pepper sauce. Yummy).

Mom ordered the Moo Shu Pork ($6.75). Out came our waiter with four thin-as-air Chinese pancakes (crepes) and he proceeded to fill them with the mix-

Eric Hipple of the Detroit Lions and Fred McLeod of WJBK-TV 2 swept the isles of the new A & P store in Belleville Sunday morning for a shopping spree to aid the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

The two were given only minutes to gather up as many groceries as possible prior to the grand opening for the store. A check in the amount of the dollar value of the groceries was forwarded to the local charity by the A & P company.

The new Belleville A & P Sav-A-Center store, located at Belleville Road and the I-94 Expressway, offers an unusual variety of grocery and non-grocery items with many specialty departments.

A wine and cheese tasting session pre-empted the Sunday morning grand opening Saturday night with local officials and dignitaries invited to tour the store and chat with A & P officials.

Mack, Beard blast board

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

Wayne County Commissioner Milton Mack (D-Wayne) lashed out against his colleagues this week for ousting John Hertel as board chairman and for removing him for his position as chairman of the county Public Safety and Public Services committees.

"I think it's very unfortunate. It sends the wrong signal out to the people of Wayne County who were hoping that the county would be responsive to their needs," Mack said Monday of the latest action in the county government.

Mack's attack on the county Commission follows a 12-3 board vote last Thursday which ousted Hertel and Vice Chairman W. Curt Boller from their positions. The commissioners cited Hertel's July 17 removal of Clarence Young from the county Drain Board as their reason for the dismissal calling the action "arbitrary" and "autocratic."

the local news in brief

School funding is increased

LANSING — The state Legislature recently passed a 1986-87 State School Aid Bill that will increase financial assistance to local school districts next year as well as change the categorical funding received by the districts, state Rep. Jim Kosteva (D-Canton) announced this week.

According to Kosteva, district allocations will be increased by 7.1 percent for the new school year. Formula aid has been increased 6.3 percent with a maximum per-pupil guarantee of $345, plus $72.25 for each operating mill levied.

Kosteva explained that the new bill will guarantee an increase in operating revenue paid to the school districts by the state to $169.34 per pupil in the Romulus schools, $158.09 for Wayne-Westland schools and $159.40 for the Van Buren school district.

In addition to the increase in per-pupil allocations, Kosteva said that state aid for vocational education, transportation and compensatory education has also increased.

The bill forces local school districts to remain in session 180 days. However, Kosteva said, up to two days could be taken off without a loss in state aid due to snow or other conditions beyond the control of school authorities.

Romulus gets bonus

ROMULUS — The city of Romulus is set to receive a "bonus" in shared highway funds due to the refinancing of state trunkline bonds, state Rep. Jim Kosteva (D-Canton) announced last week.

Kosteva reported that approximately $1 million will be saved when the bond for the state thoroughfares were refinanced at lower interest rates causing a major savings for the state, a savings that will be shared with the local governments which took part in a state loan program for road improvements.

The city of Romulus and Wayne County Road Commission both participated in the project.

In Romulus, $12,295.48 should be forwarded to the city in the form of a repayment or deduction from the amount of the next debt service payment in the city.

Tiger has a 'Buddy'

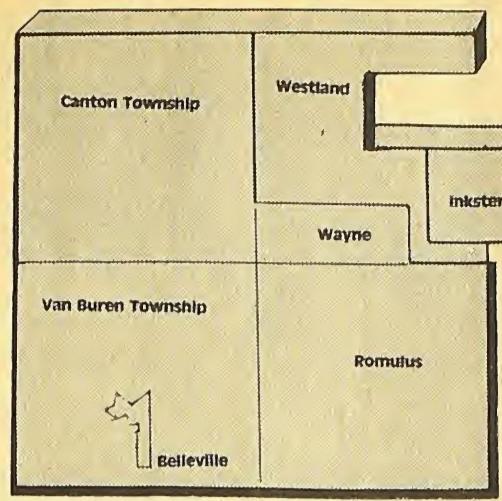

WESTLAND — The First Step Domestic Violence Program of Westland will host the largest fundraiser of the year next Monday at Buddy's Pizza, 33605 Plymouth Road, Livonia.

Wayne native and Detroit Tiger Pat Sheridan will be on hand from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. to sign autographs. A pizza-eating contest will also be staged at 7 p.m. with local high schools competing.

Cost is $6 for adults, $3 for children 12 and younger. More information is available by calling 525-2230.

Job training offered

WESTLAND — Free job training is still available for all low-income residents of Wayne County (excluding Detroit and downriver) through the William D. Ford Vocational Education Center in Westland.

Openings are still available in clerical and office practices, accounting and computing, electronics, restaurant occupations, auto repair, health occupations, printing occupations and building maintenance.

To register, call 595-2314.

Center relocates

WAYNE COUNTY — The Wayne County Unit Office of the American Cancer Society has moved to a new location.

The Garden City Osteopathic Hospital has made space for the group at the new Community Health and Education Center, 6701 Harrison Road, Garden City.

For more information on the cancer society and the various programs offered, call 425-6830.

The following are the officers of the Wayne County Teacher's Association for the ensuing year: President - J. A. Sinclair, Belleville; Vice President - C. C. Nardin, Ecorse; Secretary - Miss Minnie Begole, Belleville; Corresponding Secretary - Mrs. Bailey, Canton. The president named the following executive committee: Miss Florence Miller, Belleville; C. Cady, Wayne; R. Wells, Taylor. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Plymouth.

There will be a grand railroad and steamboat excursion over the W. St. L. & P. RR (Wabash) to Detroit and thence on the elegant side wheel steamer, Milton D. Ward, to Keweenaw Island and St. Clair Flats, Saturday, August 14, 1886. The train will leave Belleville at 8:15 a.m. returning at 9:50 p.m. The fair (fare) for the round trip from this place is $1.00.

The Baptist Church at Ypsilanti is without a minister, their comical sensationalist having resigned. His sermons were studies for the smartest men and while they were right to the point, more than one congregation has been unable to suppress an exceedingly broad grin at some of his sayings.

The Normal (now EMU) begins Wednesday, September 15

this year. Examinations for admission take place Tuesday the 14th. One of their announcements can be had by calling at this office.

Large loads of mint now pass our office daily on their way to Tyler Street (now Tyler Road). George Train while trimming apple trees last Friday accidentally cut his right foot back of the little toe very badly, the gash being about four inches long.

Last Saturday evening or more properly Sunday morning a sparring contest with 2 oz. gloves took place at Music Hall. It was a rather light pounding but suffice to give the town a reputation.

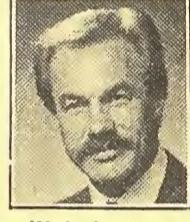

The mill race (along High Street from Church to Denton Road - no lake then) was mowed Monday. Rather damp haying.

Camp meeting began yesterday with every cottage taken (26 of them). A program will be furnished from this office.

The baseball game here Saturday afternoon between Denton and Belleville was won by the latter by a score of 52 to 18.

Cider will soon be ripe. (Sel-dom stated like this today.)

Victims of crime in Michigan are at last getting the recognition and attention they need and deserve.

The Legislature examined this serious problem and last year approved a bill known as the Crime Victims' Rights Act, which spells out under the law the rights of those who have been victimized by criminals.

Considered the most far-reaching law of its kind in the nation, it was developed with the input of supporters of crime victims and organizations which represent them and a wide range of professionals in the criminal justice field.

The plight of crime victims was brought out in a resolution recently adopted by the Legislature to recognize Crime Victims Rights Week in Michigan.

It points out that the national rise in violent crime has reached a level where as many as one out of three Americans are victimized by serious crime each year. The financial burden alone has been estimated at close to $100 billion annually.

This does not take into consideration the cost in human terms and the impact on the character of our society.

In many instances, victims of crime are forced to handle an additional financial and mental burden as their cases go through the court system. Certain victims, such as children, victims of family violence, senior citizens, minorities and the poor, often face even more personal stress because of the crime.

An addicting habit 'is killing' students

Farmington Hills, Mich. 48336*

Hospital offers help program

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

One out of every 20 high school students this year will become members of an extracurricular group. The group has no officers, no dues and no monthly meetings. It doesn't have an exemplary attendance record at football games either.

Those students will join the 2.4 million young people who have become addicted to drugs and alcohol, an addiction that has changed their lives, if not only by shortening them.

To combat the growing problem of teenage substance abuse, Annapolis Hospital in Wayne has joined several law enforcement and youth agencies in kicking off a new program designed to fight and overcome the substance abuse problems for area teenagers ages 13 to 18. Dubbed "Adolescent Substance Abuse Services," the program has been implemented to try to identify drug abuse problems in teens in the early stages while also providing a detoxification service to aid those already afflicted, according to Brad Casemore, director of the program.

"The program started Aug. 11 with evaluations," Casemore said. "The program basically has four components: inpatient detoxification, outpatient primary treatment, outpatient extended care and a phase-three support group."

What is abuse?

While the term "substance abuse" traditionally represents those addicted to the "hard drugs," Casemore said anything that is addicting and causes a change in behavior or lifestyles is a drug. Alcohol is included in this category.

"Alcohol is just as much a drug as anything else. It causes just as many problems as do street drugs," Casemore said. "There's at least 5 or 6 percent of high school seniors who use alcohol daily."

In addition to alcohol, teens generally try all drugs including marijuana, cocaine, PCPs and the acid drugs. Unlike adults who generally stick to one substance, young people mix drugs to try to obtain the "best feeling," Casemore said, a mixing that could be more deadly than simply abusing just one drug.

"With young people it's a mixture of things. Very few young people just stick to one chemical," he said. "What they are addicted to is the 'high'. They have a favorite feeling that comes with a certain drug but if they cannot afford their favorite, they'll go with others."

Contrary to the Hollywood picture of "sleazy drug pushers" lurking in the halls of high schools today, Casemore said that teens themselves are both the source and the consumer for their own drug habit. While acknowledging that an ultimate source must be adults, Casemore said that 13-year-old students have been arrested for being key components in complex drug trafficking networks.

A recent study by the National Institute on Drug Abuse revealed that 62 percent of all American young people use an illicit drug at least once before graduation, 40 percent of those students have used drugs other than marijuana.

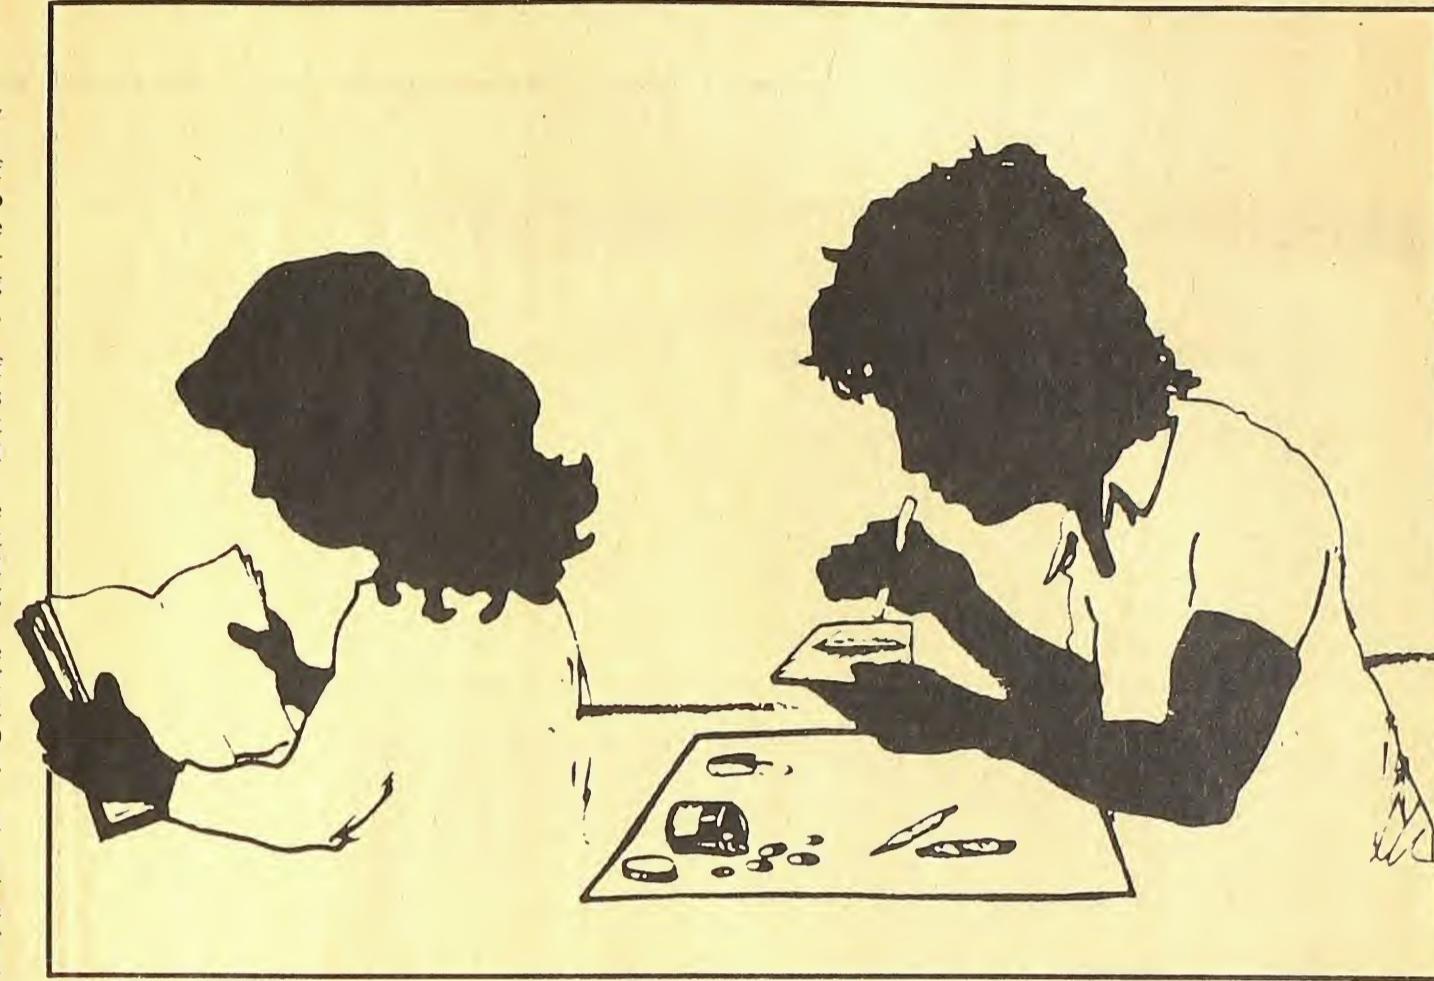

Casemore explained that such use and abuse can actually stunt the growth for a teenagers. To illustrate his point, the program director pointed to a 17-year-old teen who had been using illicit drugs for two or three years. While physically the youth had developed to a typical 17-year-old level, tests showed that the teen's mental age had actually stopped at age 15.

"Young people are developing at a rate greater than anything since they were 2 years old. It certainly becomes a problem when these drugs interfere with a portion of their life," Casemore explained. "Some young people get themselves in experiences that they would never do otherwise."

Why use drugs?

According to Casemore, the reasons for the high level of drug abuse in high school students are varied. Studies have shown that drug abuse and addiction can be heredity as children of alcoholic or drug-addicted parents stand a 33 percent greater chance of being involved with the substances than their counterparts.

"Young people start to use drugs for a number of reasons. They may be using (See ABUSE, page B-2)

Signs of addiction

Parents and school staffers who suspect that teens are using drugs and may be approaching a level of addiction should look for certain warning signals said Brad Casemore, director of the Annapolis Hospital substance abuse program.

Included in these warning signs are:

- Defensiveness when asked about drug use;
- Inappropriate behavior or responses;
- Changing friends in school or associating with teens generally thought to use drugs;
- Giving up extra-curricular activities;
- Falling grades;
- Skipping school;
- Change in eating or sleep patterns;
- Physical signals such as red eyes, running nose, sniffles;
- Less care of physical appearance;
- Missing money or more money than he should have.

Justins still holding hands after 54 years

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

Clinton and Evelyn Justin have been holding hands for 50 years.

"If we didn't, we would kill each other," Clinton said jokingly of his 54-year-old marriage.

The Wayne resident made that comment to a friend recently intended only as a joke. That joke, however, has blossomed into the motto for the couple and now serves as a symbol of their time-torn, enduring relationship.

The two met in Detroit at the age of 14 and 13. Clinton, 14 at the time, worked as an usher at the local movie theater "just so I would get to see all the movies for free." Realizing that what was beginning was more than a mere case of "puppy love" for the two, Evelyn became a frequent customer at the theater and added fuel to the spark that had ignited their future marriage.

"I wasn't allowed to go out with boys at night when I was 13 so I would meet him down at the show," Evelyn recalled of the early years of their romance. "We went to two different schools but we were still neighbors."

The two were married in 1931 during the peak days of the Great Depression. Clinton landed a job at the Detroit News where he worked as an office boy and a clerk of the foreign exchange desk.

One of the highlights of his nine-year stint at the major Detroit daily newspaper was covering the Buckley trial, the courtroom proceedings following the assassination of Jerry Buckley, a renowned radio announcer who was gunned down by members of the "Purple Gang."

"I had to go down to the courtroom and take notes during the trial. I can still remember the look on the judge's face," Clinton remembered.

"I would take the notes and bring them back to the office. Then someone else would write the stories."

Evelyn's working days were no less exciting as she was employed at Awrey's bakery as a cake decorator. The 52 year old still remembers the aroma of the freshly baked yellow- and chocolate-batter delicacies she completed with a few strokes of the icing bag and the words "Happy Birthday" or "Merry Christmas."

Evelyn, a Detroit native, came to the Wayne area when her father became a major stockholder in the now-defunct Harroun Automobile Manufacturing Plant on Michigan Avenue in Wayne. Clinton followed behind taking up residence in the city and has remained there ever since raising three children.

As for the future, Clinton and Evelyn, now both retired, plan to enjoy the easy life. Although rest and relaxing may be associated with the traditional "easy life," the Justins have a slightly customized definition.

"I think we will take it easy and enjoy life. But, that's doesn't mean just sit around. If you go home from retirement and watch the clock, you don't last long," Clinton explained.

"You have to keep active and we do. We know people who would rather go out with us than with young people."

"I don't think we'll get married again but we'll keep busy," Clinton concluded with a chuckle.

Abuse

drugs to rebel against their parents. They may use them because they relax them at parties so to be able to talk to people of the opposite sex.

"The bottom line is that it makes them feel good. Some teens can use it only on occasion and they never have a drug addiction problem. But for some, it's a progressive thing, once they are on the path of addiction, they are going to become chemically dependent."

Teens themselves will admit that drug abuse is wrong. A 1982 survey found that 67 percent of high school seniors felt that marijuana posed a "great risk" for users and 85 percent objected to marijuana use by peers. In addition, 79 percent of the seniors said cocaine use was wrong and many admitted that alcohol abuse could be deadly.

Still, 39 percent of the students surveyed had consumed five or more drinks in a row on at least one occasion in the past two weeks and 5 percent said they smoke marijuana on a daily basis.

The program

The substance abuse program isn't for everyone, Casemore said, as not all teens with suspected problems are drug users. All youths referred to the agency by their parents, school principals, counselors or teachers, or by law enforcement officials are first given an about three-hour evaluation, interview and testing session.

Chemical use and concurrent problems are assessed in the evaluation through intensive interviews with the adolescent and his parents, Casemore said. Parental involvement is a must for the program to be successful, he added, as drug anti-addiction must be a family effort.

From the evaluation, agency staffers are able to determine to which level of the program the teen should be introduced. Very few young people are addicted to the point of needing hospitalization, Casemore said, since their drug habit is still young, but there are exceptions.

The inpatient detoxification facet of the program is for the very serious addiction case, Casemore explained. Through the help of a physician, teens are withdrawn from the drugs and a transfer to a residential chemical dependency treatment center may be arranged.

The outpatient primary treatment facet of the program is for adolescents with an abuse problem who do not require removal from their environment to inpatient care.

"We try to keep them in school and at home. We work with the school and the law enforcement officers to do this," Casemore said.

"The 12-week program includes adolescent peer groups, parent peer groups, individual sessions and support group attendance. All teens in this program are required to attend regular meetings of the Alcoholics Anonymous organization as a means of learning additional guides to curb their addiction.

The outpatient groups continue on two additional levels, Casemore said, each one concurrent on completion of the one prior. In addition to the programs for the abusers themselves, other family members - who may not necessarily be addicted to drugs - can attend weekly support groups to learn how they can aid in the drug anti-addiction process.

"The problem of drug and alcohol abuse is quite alarming. Typically, teens have not developed the coping skills an adult would be expected to have, so treatment (in this program) is handled different from adult therapy. It is important that the family and others in the environment be involved in the treatment process. With this kind of cooperative effort, chances of success are greater."

We try to keep them in school and at home. We work with the school and the law enforcement officers to do this.

Mousses cool summer meals

For the uninitiated, a mousse is French for "moss", "froth, or "cream." These all are apt descriptions for a super-smooth concoction that uses whipped cream with gelatin as a stabilizer with base. Contrary to popular belief, the term does not mean the culinary preparation of a rodent like creature. See: mouse.

Herbed or served sweet, the cold mousse is the queen of the summer epicurean dishes. It can be the star of a buffet, the "piece de resistance" of a patio luncheon, the climax of a summer dinner party or the entree for an evening meal when temperatures are soaring and palates are sweaty.

For the summer cook who doesn't want to sweat over a hot stove or barbecue and would rather throw everything into a blender or food processor, press a few buttons and let the magic of the refrigerator do the work, mousses are the answer.

For perfect results, the cream should not be whipped into oblivion or the mixture will be grainy. Best results can be achieved by whipping just until soft peaks begin to form. The biggest mistake made in preparing this mouth-watering treat is the use of too much gelatin which, in turn, gives the product a rubbery consistency comparable to something Kellogg's can call "chewy fruit square." As a general rule of thumb, one tablespoon of dry gelatin serves adequately to one pint of liquid to mold. If you purchase gelatin by the packet form (Knox) - there is approximately one tablespoon of granules per envelope. Bulk unflavored gelatin (the best available is something called Grayslake) is about twice as potent and, therefore, should be reduced by half.

While mousses may be served directly from a bowl - or for dessert - in individual glasses or bowls, they are most attractive when chilled in a mold and garnished after unmolding on a serving plate or tray. Needless to say, the more decorative the mold, the more dramatic will be the presentation of the dish. In all honesty though, any suitably-sized dish from the cupboard will do. Best of all, however, are lightweight tin molds, mainly because they hold the chill better and are easiest to unmold simply by inverting on a serving plate and covering the outer surface with a tea towel that has been wrung out with hot water. A sharp tap or two on the bottom should

larry janes

quickly produce the reassuring "plop" as it parts from the mold.

If copper molds are used, be they are tin-lined or the mousse will take on an unpleasant metallic taste and could be discolored. Ring molds are especially good for mousses that require a sauce or additional whipped cream or simply for holding garnishes, cold vegetables or fresh fruits.

Before filling a mousse mold, lightly coat the inside with plain oil. (A pastry brush or folded paper towel works great). This makes unmolding easier. Far be it from me to tell you not to use "cooking sprays." Personally speaking, I think they leave an unpleasant odor and some are loaded with chemicals that are difficult to pronounce.

If thick-ceramic molds are used, the mousse is best unmolded by sinking the mold almost up to the rim in a large container of warm water for one minute, then by running a knife around the edge. For cold mousses, all serving plates should be well chilled.

Molds come in different shapes and sizes. Generally speaking, a one and one-half quart mold will serve five to six people. Of course, if you're trying to feed the Janes Family, this is completely inaccurate. Looking to serve a capacity crowd? Try tripling the recipes and using layered cake pans in various sizes and inverting them on top of each, layer cake style.

Appropriate garnishing can camouflage just about any blunder. Parsley and kale work best for hiding big cracks or unsightly mishaps usually brought on by goofy unloading techniques.

Smooth or crunchy, creamy or gelatinous, chunky or shredded, mousses can fill the bill and make the hottest mealtime a fun, cool-down period to relax and enjoy.

STRAWBERRY MOUSSE

1 pint fresh berries, washed, hulled and crushed
1 pint fresh berries, washed and hulled
1 cup confectioners' sugar, sifted (powdered)
2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
6 tablespoons Cointreau (or fruit juice)

1 pint heavy cream, whipped Sprinkle crushed berries with the sugar and gently mix until the sugar is dissolved. Set aside. Reserve 6 of the prettiest berries for garnish. Cut remaining berries in half. Sprinkle gelatin over half the Cointreau or use fruit juice and heat stirring over low heat clear and dissolved. (About 3 minutes.) Set aside until cooled. Combine with the fruit mixture, fold in 1 pint whipped cream. Transfer to decorative prepared mold. Insert strawberry halves here and there throughout the mold. Cover and chill until firm (about 3 hours). Decorate with whole berries and piped whipped cream around the base.

MOUSSE OF EGGS AND OLIVES

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water dash salt
dash tabasco
the juice of 1 lemon
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1/4 cup diced celery
1/4 cup stuffed olives, chopped
4 hard boiled eggs, chopped
salad greens, to garnish

Soften gelatin in cold water. Dissolve over hot water. Add salt, lemon, juice and tabasco, cool. Stir mix slowly into mayonnaise. Add remaining ingredients except salad greens and pour into a 3-cup mold. Chill, covered until firm. Unmold onto fresh salad greens and serve with mayonnaise and hard-cooked eggs.

SALMON MOUSSE

1 lb. salmon fillets or steaks (other fish may be used)
3 cups white wine for poaching
1 egg white and shell
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1 cucumber, seeded and cubed
1 onion, thinly sliced

Cook the salmon steaks in boiling white wine seasoned with a few peppercorns and bay leaf. Poach in boiling liquid for about 7-10 minutes or until cooked throughout. Remove the salmon and bring the liquid to a boil and reduce to 2 cups. Clarify the broth by dropping the egg white and shell into the boiling broth and then by straining it through cheesecloth. Dissolve the gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water and combine it with the hot broth. Let cool until it starts to set. Place fish, cucumber and onion in blender or processor with cooled liquid. Process until smooth. Pour into a prepared fish mold and chill, covered for at least 3 hours or until set. Unmold on a bed of greens.

Doris Nall of Canton Township doesn't cook many extravagant meals living alone. However, when she does, all stops are removed to prepare the most tempting meals for her family and friends.

"I live by myself so I guess I don't do a lot of cooking. When I have my family home or entertain, I enjoy it for special occasions," Nall said.

"I guess day to day, I mostly do a lot of vegetable steaming and stir-frying."

Nall, the secretary to the city manager in Wayne, here offers two of her most prized recipes.

Vital Signs

At Annapolis Hospital, we know that vital signs are an important measure of progress, for a hospital as well as a patient. That's why at Annapolis, we're constantly monitoring our own vital signs in order to determine how we can help serve you better.

Right now, Annapolis is completing an addition which will house the hospital's new CT Scanner, a project designed to further improve diagnostic services. Future plans include extensive remodeling of the pediatric and obstetric units. These and other planned improvements, combined with medical and surgical advancements and new services such as adolescent substance abuse and occupational health programs, enable us to respond to all patient needs.

At Annapolis Hospital, we're dedicated to the progress of family health care. And that's a good sign for everyone.

Wayne rules downriver swim league

Undefeated in their five starts this season and scoring 100 points more than their closest rival, the Dolphins captured the 1986 Downriver Swim League championship. The Dol-

'Bridesmaids' MAACO is ousted at regional tourney

Running up against a tough and determined Waterford Compuware club, Taylor MAACO was forced to settle for second best at the Mid-East Regional fast-pitch softball tournament last week.

Forced into a three-game series with the host, Taylor dropped the opening game 6-0 but bounced back in the second to win 5-1 to keep their tournament title hopes alive.

However, Waterford regrouped and stunned the local club, 7-0, to claim the title and will, for the third consecutive year, travel to the national championship.

"Waterford is an excellent team and they did the things needed to beat us," said Coach Fred Coleman. "But, we have nothing to be ashamed of. Finishing runner-up at the Mid-East regional is something we can all proud of."

MAACO, which draws many of its team members from Romulus and the area, presently sports a 28-8 over-all record. They finished second in the league and currently are involved in the city playoffs in Taylor.

Michele Scarroff collected three critical RBIs in a game against Trenton that sealed the league title for MAACO. And Jennifer Daniel, like Mickey Stanley in 1968, was moved from center field to shortstop because the MAACO regular shortstop was out of town, playing an exception game.

"I believe that both the junior high and the high school softball teams at Romulus have bright futures ahead of them," Coleman said.

Westland to host charity golf meet

The Westland Police Officers' Association is sponsoring a charity golf tournament September 27 at Hilltop Golf Course in Plymouth Township. Called "Shoot for a Cure", the funds raised will be donated to help find a cure for multiple sclerosis.

Tickets are $40 per person for the 18-hole scramble event. The price includes a buffet dinner, green's fees, beer, trophies and door prizes.

Tee times begin at 8:45 a.m. Officer M. G. Terry, vice president of the Westland Police Officers' Association and organizer of the event, urges all area golfers "to make a special effort to play in this event."

"It's a worthy cause and also golfers from scratch to hackers will enjoy the competition," he added.

Tickets can be obtained by contacting officer Terry at the Westland Police Department (721-6311) or officers Rich Ringer or Tom Kubitskey at 722-9600.

Romulus crowns league champs

It's all over in the Romulus Parks & Recreation Department summer softball leagues. Sun-N-Snow, sporting an 18-3 over-all record, edged Leonardo's for the championship in the Men's Division II, while Romulus Video fought off the Huron Merchants to claim the championship in the Women's Division II.

In the meantime, First

Flight Freight, with a near perfect 13-1 record, emerged from the Sunday League with the co-(See CHAMPS, Page 2-C)

Time to register for football

It's that time of year again to haul out the old pigskin and cleats and put away that mitt and ball as the Westland Youth Athletic Association (WYAA) begins a brand new season of Junior League Football in the Western County area.

Even though practice has already started, it's still not too late to sign up to get in on the action of the gridiron.

One away from perfection

Registration for football is $40.

Also, registration for cheerleaders for the Comets or Meteors are also being taken at the same sites which cost $30.

Wayne to give league grid powers a run for the title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

550 yards in his first five games before he was lost for the season due to a ankle injury.

Tatum is back, and so is senior quarterback Doug Quartuccio, a superb field general who could lead the Zebras to greater things thanks to his excellent knowledge of the game.

We should be competitive in a league which produces some of the finest high school football talent in the state.

Chuck Howton
Wayne coach

"Doug can do just about anything," says Howton whose team brings the curtain up on the 1986 campaign Sept. 5 at home to Garden City. "And he (Quartuccio) comes from a family of excellent athletes."

The Wayne offensive backfield also will include a former Cherry Hill standout, Lewis

Davis, a junior. (The Cherry Hill School District merged with Wayne-Westland and both high schools - Wayne and John Glenn are the recipients of many of the Spartan athletes.) Davis, a junior, will alternate with Tatum at the tailback slot and is considered by Howton as "an excellent prospect".

Wayne's offensive line should be improved over a year ago thanks to candidates Jody Caruana, a 5-11, 185-pound guard; tackle Steve Edwards, 6-3, 215, who is a returning tackle, Shawn Howard, a 6-2, 210-pound tackle and center Scott Bedder, a 5-11, 180-pound center. Adding beef to that line is 6-1, 220-pound Shane Bellendir.

Although he is making his debut on the team, 5-11, 180-pound Mike Hines is already proving that he has a place on the starting roster. A middle linebacker, Howton says that Hines is "extremely fast and a tough competitor."

But in a league (Wolverine A Conference) that includes the likes of state powers Dearborn Fordson, Monroe, Trenton, and Wyandotte, Belleville, and Lincoln Park, Wayne has had its problems staying above the .500 mark lately.

What does the sophomore Wayne coach see in the future for his club? "It's always tough to look down the road," he points out, "It's just too early and you really don't know what the opposition has. But, again, I may be repeating myself, but I believe that this year we could turn things around, and obviously we have to stay away from injuries in order to reach our goals."

Wayne's co-captains

Wayne Memorial will rely on the leadership and the experience of Ken Edwards (44) and Steve Warner (79) to help improve their 3-6 over-all Wolverine "A" Conference football record. Edwards and Warner were elected the Zebras' co-captains for the 1986 campaign which will open up for Coach Chuck Howton's gridders on Sept. 5 against non-conference rival Garden City.

Champs

veted crown. A distant second was E & W Custom Cabinets which finished the campaign with a 9-4 record.

Chrysler had a tough time shaking off 112 Bar, but managed to do so thanks to a 11-1 record to take the Men's Friday - Blue Division Championship and Polka Dot wound up on top of the Men's Friday Red Division with a 10-2 record.

Chrysler showed fourth-place Environ why it is champ, turning back their rivals, 16-7. Sam May hammered two homers and batted in three runs while Larry Chesno slammed a homer and single for the winners. Jim Stevens chipped in two doubles and Rick Burr had three RBIs and a homer.

Environ wasted two hits each from Jay Brown, Bob Coffee and Steve McCollar.

Rebuilding is over, Robichaud is back

Yauck has 16 starters returning for '86 campaign

Most coaches would be overly pleased at a 6-3 won-lost record.

That's what Robichaud posted during the 1985 football campaign which was considered a "rebuilding year" for veteran Bulldog coach Bob Yauck.

With 16 starters returning this year, Robichaud looks as if it is ready again to challenge for state honors. In 1984, the coveted Class B championship eluded Yauck and his gridders after losing in the semi-finals to East Grand Rapids. They finished with an 8-1 record that year.

"We're a young team," said Yauck who begins his 17th season as the Bulldogs' head coach, "but we have experienced players at almost every position. We should be all-right, but you never can tell until you get a couple of games under your belt."

Robichaud will launch the 1986 season against Country Day at home Sept. 5.

If the Bulldogs are to improve on that 6-3 record, then sophomore quarterback Eric Thomas will have to stay healthy and remain wise.

"He has all the tools to be a great one," noted Yauck. "He has a good arm and he knows the game, so we're placing a lot on his shoulders. But, you have to remember he is a sophomore, and there is still a lot to learn."

And, if better things are to come to the Dearborn Heights-based high school, fullback Bernardo Carter and runningbacks Carl Brown and Willie Smith must also contribute more than their share.

Brown has speed to burn. He is a sophomore who developed into the team's leading rusher a year ago.

Smith also is an elusive ballcarrier that can break any game open. Carter...well...keep your eyes on him. He has the potential of becoming one of the best at his trade.

College scouts already know of Donald Mandell, Robichaud's 205-pound, 5-11 lineman who is an all Suburban Athletic Conference performer both on defense and offense. He's in the middle linebacker's slot when the Bulldogs don't have the ball.

For tackles, Yauck has 6-2, 240-pound Rog Porter at one end and Derrick Gibson, 210, 6-2 at the other; the guards are Dave Livingston, who checks in at 5-10, 175, and Ken Wood, 5-7, 165 pounds.

Yauck has returning to his line-up Randall James, a 6-3, 175-pound split end and Tyji Armstrong, a 6-4, 195 pound tight end. And he also has 6-5, 215-pound Steve Neal around who returned from University of Michigan football camp with the top award as a tight end.

The SAC, crowded with Class B schools, is overshadowed by

Hill Park, the lone Class A representative which, according to Yauck "has to always be considered when it comes to picking pre-season title favorites."

"They (Highland Park) have the numbers to pick from," Yauck says, "and a lot of talent as well. But, we are always optimistic. There'll be a dogfight again, believe me."

Noted for its defense, Robichaud's 1986 model appears to have all the qualities to keep that tradition alive.

2. In Memoriam

FROM EARTH TO HEAVEN
In memory of my husband, Stanley C. Bowers deceased August 15, 1985.

THEY whom we loved on Earth
Attract us now to Heaven.
Who shared our grief and mirth,
Again to us given;

They move with noiseless foot,
All grave and sweet around us;
And their soft touch hath cut
The chains of Earth that bound us.

YET not as in the days
Of earthly ties we love them,
For they are touched with rays
From light that is above them;

Another sweetness shines
Around their well known features,

And God with glory signs
His dearly ransomed creatures.

YES, they are more our own,
Since now they are God's only.
And each one that has gone
Has left our hearts less lonely.

He mourns not seasons fled,
Who now in Him possesses,

Treasures of many dead
In their dear Lord's careness.

With love from his wife,

Mike
